Introduction

Research shows that those with learning difficulties & disabilities, do not usually have access to as many provisions as their counterparts when they leave school or college. In an attempt to answer this What Next? question, DALO has developed a programme to help young people continue to gain the vital skills needed to live happy & fulfilled lives during adulthood.

Mission Statement

At DALO we truly believe that everyone, regardless of the severity of their disability, can contribute positively towards their community if given the right opportunities.

The Programme's Aims

- To provide person centred, innovative & stimulating activities that meet our clients learning needs
- To promote socialisation amongst individuals
- To deliver and engage clients in vocational, life skills and leisure activities (including swimming, bowling & trips)
- To promote creativity through art, music and drama
- To give clients the opportunity to gain qualifications, leading towards greater personal independence
- To allow the young people to become familiar and active with and within their local communities

Message from the Managing Director

“After completing a Masters degree in Special Education & Inclusion, and with over seventeen years working in this field, I felt the need to develop a programme, rather than a service, for people with learning difficulties & disabilities.”

Sandria McIntosh, MA
